Goshen College
Goshen, Indiana
1976

The God who created the world and everything in it . . . the universal giver of life and breath . . . created every race of people of one stock, to inhabit the whole earth's surface.

Acts 17:24-26 (NEB)

Just what are you, Goshen College? Where is it you're going? Is your goal really a definable one? Can "what you are" possibly be put into words?

People sure do try—how many well-meant words have been written and spoken in the effort? Some come close to capturing a little of your spirit—but just a little, only affording a glimpse of the multi-faceted entity that is Goshen.

You can't be described in the words of a single person, because no one can understand and really represent the motley mixture of personalities that are responsible for making you whatever it is that you are.

You include so many people from such different places—their collective experience is amazing; and you go out to so many places too, places often elusive to those who remain on the campus.

But if you take all of these essential people; the scholars and the clowns, serene and perpetually lost, the earnest ones and those wholly irreverent; and you calendar their year through their own words and images, maybe then you can come close to expressing just what Goshen is.

With camera and with pen, we tried to record the year for you.

Beginning, 1975, but what concerned us most vitally was the start of a new tri. We shuffled again through registration lines, course outlines in hand, and shuddered at the announcement that next years tuition would show an 8.6% increase. Bronzed SST-ers appeared in the crowd, clustered together and already reminiscing. An air rifle made a startling appearance on campus as the excess pigeon population was trimmed. Mennonite artists were conferring and preparing for the next months Menno Art show. New classes met—we dropped, audited, added, adjusted and moved on.

. . . Now that the initial excitement of being back at GC again after months of travel has worn off, school is starting to seem unreal, irrevelant, and at times almost useless. I know that much of what I'm learning may be used later, but I yearn to be doing something that brings results and satisfaction now.

At one time ambition would have been sufficient energy and reward, but Goshen College, much of education, humanity, and sometimes even life itself is getting to be old hat and has lost its mystique. I see more and more that mystique is the stuff of ambition.

January journal entry

Dear Mary,

I've been back in Goshen for two weeks now . . . at times it has seemed like an eternity, wishing I would have stayed in Japan or South Korea. I was so anxious to return, but now I must adjust to a new life here . . . one that I did not expect or prepare for. My old friends are gone; graduated, moved on to other locations. New faces have taken their places.

I keep reminding myself of the happiness I had found here in Goshen before. I am sure, if I keep searching, tearing down walls, and baring myself open to the joy and heartache of new relationships, that my life in Goshen will again take on a positive meaning. Meanwhile, I'm searching through the rubble . . .

During 1975, two men, immeasurably valuable in the growth of Goshen College, died.

S. C. Yoder and Ernest E. Miller served as presidents at Goshen College during its growing and stabalizing years; Dr. Yoder from 1924 to 1940, and Dr. Miller from 1940 to 1954.

Both men served the Mennonite church as mission leaders, educators, administrators and church pastors. Their lives became closely entwined with the Goshen College community, with the goals that the College sought to gain and the standards it struggled to uphold.

Sanford C. Yoder reorganized the college and reopened it in 1924. During his tenure at Goshen College four buildings were erected—Coffman Hall, Kulp Hall, the Health Center, and Memorial Library. He wrote several books and became quite interested in the sport scene at GC during his later years.

Ernest E. Miller's term as president began shortly before World War II. His proposed program of training young men for civilian service instead of military service became a major contribution to the church's non-resistant stand during the war. His tremendous sense of humor and his concern for the students became his trademark which many would remember him for.

We were well into the tri, but still comfortably far away from the tensions of major deadlines. It was a good month to enjoy the folk music of singers Addiss and Crofut, and bluegrass man Mike Seeger made a big hit on campus.

The talent within the school had this month to shine, too. The Mennonite Artists' show impressed many of us with its unique and professional qualities. The Mennonite Writers conference brought together established writers, poets, and journalists with interested students for four days of lectures and workshops. Student writers, artists and poets had their works published in Subject to Change, an experimental literary arts magazine. Creative spirit ran high.

Untitled

Times just get mean, sometimes, you know
There I was, late again,
Cutting across the grass,
Notebook burps
And there's papers everywhere in
The ravenous spring breeze—
I'm grabbing by handfuls
To stuff them back in, while the crowds walk by Some greetings.
"Damn," said I, "next guy that asks how I'm doing gets busted in the "mouth."
Well, along comes this guy they call
God,
Briefcase at his side, hair
combed, the whole bit
(his shirt tail was tucked in)
His smile as bright as the moon
He says, "Hi, how are you doing?"
Well, a man's only as good as his word,
It's been that way a lot.

You go out the door
and down the street along night-vaulted deciduous tunnels:

I sit with my book.

You go out the door

You go out alone
and the door and the street and I are drawn along behind you,

Winter all the Same

The car was slow in growing warm, and conversation too was cold.
Our thoughts and words would take the form of exhaled, frozen breath, and hold our time-worn friendship in the cloud.
The radio played nothing new, and
and even silence was too loud.
With little else to say or do,
we found the bar and drank our beer,
then left the place when it seemed right.
The air was pure and winter clear,
and fields were touched with silver light.
The trees seemed set with precious stone,
and black earth broke from rippled snow.
Some magic had been loosed and grown
To give the earth a frigid glow.
But it was winter all the same.
There may be beauty in the cold,
But who can really fix the blame for frozen beauty grown so old?

The collagraph National Park was given by friends, faculty, and students in memory of Marion M. Bontrager, associate professor of mathematics from 1968 to 1974. They wished to find something that everyone could enjoy and that could portray Professor Bontrager's love of the outdoors. This was on display in the Mennonite Artists exhibit and now hangs in Science Hall.

March 7 brought the second annual Goshen College Carnival, which earned over $2000 to be divided between the Salvation Army, Eastern Board of Missions, and MCC relief. Who can forget President Burkholder in the pillow fight or East Hall's El Cheapo Bar? Miller 4th won the honors as the floor with the most money earned by the carnival.

"Don Giavonni" was another highlight of the cold, wet month. Directed by Dr. Lon Sherer, Hans Houshower, Steve Shank, and Dr. Doyle Preheim, the play was performed before three large audiences. "Giovanni" received very good reviews from the audiences and the Record.

Sunday, March 2, the college dedicated a new Nursing Learning Center located in the Arts building. The center is equipped with learning aids, practice equipment as well as testing room and a study center. Since the dedication, the Learning Center has become the hiding place for most of the GC nursing students.

The Goshen College Players and drama classes spent the month of March traveling throughout Elkhart County and points further with a repertoire of five one-act plays. The plays were presented to a wide variety of audiences; from an elementary school's PTO to a Mother-Daughter banquet. It was the sixth year of such productions with the GC Players performing to 30-40 audiences each year.

In mid-March the State Peace Oratorical winners were announced. Art Griffin placed first in Indianapolis, with his speech, "If I Could Be You", and qualified for entrance into the National Contest in the spring. Merle Snyder and Bonita Yoder also placed high in the contest as representatives of GC.

During the last two summer trimesters there has been a special SST unit in Poland. This has drawn the attention not only of the students and professors involved, but of many Polish people as well. Language instructors, lecturers, guides, dorm mates, and fellow workers have come into contact with the program. In March 1975 POLAND magazine published an article on the unit, including statements made by some of the students. Excerpts of some of these appear below.

Just about the only thing I really knew about Poland when I came was where it was located on the map and the name of the capital. During my stay here I have come to admire, respect, and love this nation and the people that make it. Already I am scheming ways with which I will return some day.

My experience here has given me much to work with, especially in the United States where the biggest impression of the Poles seems to be gained by rude jokes which have no logical basis.

Since I've been here I've developed more affection for my own country. Before I left, bitterness was slowly building in me, which isn't good for anyone. Now I realize that I need to have a spirit of understanding for my own country as well as other countries. I realize now how much a native country means to me.

Brent W. Sprunger

I respect the people of Poland. I cannot fully comprehend the horror of their role in World War II, but I have seen how this nation survived and rebuilt with strength. The Poles are a very decent and feeling people, very sensitive to the needs of others. I feel safe here in Warsaw, very unlike my feelings in large American cities.

April gave us the end of the winter trimester, and with the end came the cramming and worrying for the infamous final exams. Students showed their coffee drinking abilities and their late night thinking abilities for the long week of scrapping for the ever-elusive A.

Ah, Graduation! After four years of fighting cafeteria lines, waking up with cold showers, screaming at the soccer games and being on time for orchestra practice, 255 GC students received their Bachelor's degrees on April twentieth.

You've gone to 250 chapels, eaten 2000 meals in the cafeteria, been to the Dean's office twice and visited four churches in Goshen (claiming each was not nearly as good as your church back home) during your Goshen College life and now it's over . . .Ah, Graduation!

Pinch Penny Press released its latest book, "Contemporary Costa Rican Literature in Transition". It is the first translated edition of Costa Rican literature in the United States. The book contains several collections of poetry, three selections of short fiction and a drama. Ervin Beck and Wilber Birkey compiled and edited the works for the book.

"The SST bus is here."

With that, the SSTers arrived from their experiences in Costa Rica, Honduras, Haiti and Belize. A bit wiser and a lot darker they returned with their stories, (somewhat harder to believe than the group before) and their souvenirs.

A week later a new group would be leaving the "comforts" of GC for their turn at "culture shock" and dysentery.

The campus grieved when, while on SST in Costa Rica, Barb Roeschly drowned while swimming off the Pacific beach at Quepos.
The world elsewhere went on; events intensified in Viet Nam, culminating in the liberation of Saigon (Ho Chi Minh City).

It rained, and rained, and rained. Campus population was sparse, with most students elsewhere, gainfully employed in the pursuit of money for the coming school year. A bright spot at GC was created by one of Allen Kreider's rare appearances, when he came from London to teach a class on Comparative Revolutions. John Fisher, Jack Dueck and a group of students made the reverse trip to Europe, spending up to three spring terms working, studying and bicycling through Ireland.

July was a month for sunbathing with many of the students at GC studying outdoors while getting that impressive tan.

Most students, however, were busy during the month. A kiln building class, taught by Marvin Bartel, spent the third term readying kilns for ceramics classes for the fall trimester.

Mary Oyer held a Fine Arts class in London. It was a month of studying in the museums and libraries of the famous city, as well as the architecture of London.

July was also the final month for the SSTers in their respective countries. Groups from Honduras, Belize, Haiti, Costa Rica and Poland prepared to leave their new aquaintances to return to GC, then their homes.

August was a month of vacation and travel for some GC students as well as an end of a summer job for others. For the faculty, the month was one of reorganizing and realizing personal and institutional goals. They retreated to Camp Amigo where they shared and regrouped before the '75-'76 school year.

Among the travellers during the month, President Burkholder spent a portion of August on a 21-day trip through China. It was his return to a country where he had worked 27 years earlier as a supervisor for MCC relief work.

Construction began on a new plaza between the Ad and Science buildings. Money was contributed as a memorial to Genevieve Strasser (1894-1974) by family and friends. The plaza was completed in late November.

Students returned to GC in September for the school year with their hard-earned tans and their bulging checking accounts only to lose them both during the long months of autumn.

Earl Gray brought forth the annual chicken barbeque with corn-on-the-cob for all to enjoy. It was a might cold out, but the chicken was finger lickin' good.

Tennis season began in September. This year's squad posted a 4-7 record, finishing with two wins in league play.

September held the foreign students retreat at Camp Amigo. It was a time for new foreign students, as well as those returning, to share their concerns and needs that they expected to find at Goshen College.

October brought the meat of the '75 soccer season for GC booters. John Ingold coached the team to a 10-3-1 record and a tie for the conference title with Huntington. Abner Kisare's, record breaking, 25 goals earned him a spot on the all-conference team along with defensivemen Brent Gotwals and Willie Swartzentruber and fellow wing Bob Gingerich.

In women's sports, field hockey was the name of the game. This years squad went undefeated with a 5-0-1 record behind the coaching of Vicki Mester.

October 9 the first Campus Ex-Communicator made its appearance at GC. Filled with satirical comments on campus life, the "Ex" became an overnight success with students, faculty, and staff alike.

October tenth and eleventh the second annual Maple Leaf Festival was held at GC. After competition including football, volleyball, whiffleball and peddlecart racing High Park fourth and Miller first shared honors with Kenwood and Miller fourth as co-champs of the two-day event.

The Goshen College Players presented the 1845 comedy "Fashion" in mid-October. Directed by Stephen Shank, the play was an impressive success in its three performances.

The Black Student Union's volleyball marathon raged on for a full 24 hours, raising money through student pledges to provide an incoming freshman with a BSU scholarship. Basketball season began, and we happily traveled home for Thanksgiving vacation. Enlightenment and entertainment were provided by LM lecturer Jill Ruckelshaus and by the GC Players' production of Cry the Beloved Country. Authors were in evidence this month; retired history prof. Willard Smith completed his latest book The Social and Religious Thought of William Jennings Bryan, and Canadian author Rudy Wiebe returned to Goshen, where he had taught previously, for three days of lecturing on his own works and the writing of fiction.

All sound is in the lap of waves
The dusk keeps undistrubed, until Damp air is stroked by liquid trill—

December is a hectic month at any school. Tense with exams (and pre-vacation registration this year), but still full of the excitement of Christmas and vacation coming. We made our way through exam week with varying degrees of grace, heaved enormous sighs of relief and headed home, to forget it all for at least three weeks.

Congressman John Brademas read this Goshen News editorial plus a personal comment about GC into the December 11 Congressional Record.

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 94th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 121 WASHINGTON, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1975 No. 183

GOSHEN (IND.) NEWS SALUTES GOSHEN COLLEGE

HON. JOHN BRADEMAS

OF INDIANA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, December 11, 1975

Mr. BRADEMAS, Mr. Speaker, located in my congressional district are eight institutions providing postsecondary educational opportunities.

One of those, in Goshen, Ind., is Goshen College, the president of which, Dr. J. Lawrence Burkholder, a distinguished theologian, leads an institution committed to a tradition of scholarship and Christian values.

And, Mr. Speaker, I take particular pride in noting that my mother is a graduate of Goshen College.

Recently the Goshen News editorially saluted Goshen College for its contributions to the local community and I would like to share this editorial with my colleagues:

GOSHEN COLLEGE CONTRIBUTIONS TO US

Many of us are very aware that Goshen College is a fine institution of higher learning here in our community but we don't really know much about the impact the college has on our economy.

We may be aware that the college brings cultural offerings such as art exhibits, lectures, concerts and recitals to our community. Some of us have tickets to the lecture-music series. The college offers courses during the day and evening for persons wishing to continue their education, library privileges to the serious user, student volunteers in a host of community helping agencies, and student labor for occasional peak work periods of local business and manufacturing firms.

But many of us aren't aware that the greater part of Goshen College's $4.76 million budget is spent in Elkhart County for goods and services. And we may not know that 70 per cent of this money to support this budget comes from outside our geographic region. We also may not know that the college employs 350 people.

This expenditure of this large sum of money may not seem to mean much if you're not in business, but it does. The money the college spends for goods of many kinds to build and operate its facilities is spent with firms that pay a big share of county property taxes each year. Students spend lots of dollars here in buying clothes, keeping their cars on the road and in our restaurants. These businesses are all an important part of our community.

William W. Jellema, in The Study of Independent Higher Education in Indiana, states, "A college reaps many practical business benefits for its community. It creates jobs by employing people to teach and administer. It purchases goods of many kinds to build and operate its facilities. It attracts students and visitors from near and far. These people spend money in the college community—money that might not otherwise have been spent there.

"Furthermore, the ultimate economic consequences of spending are greater than the original impetus. Recipients of the first-round expenditures also spend part of the money. Each successive round of receipts and expenditures creates an added impact—it generates new incomes and job opportunities that would not otherwise have materialized."

Based on Jellema's research formula and the college's $4.76 million 1975 budget, GC's "first-round" figure for outlays in this community this year total $3.2 million. This represents expenditures for day-to-day operations and money spent by faculty, staff, students and visitors.

In terms of economic impact on the community, the local "multiplier" indicates an aggregate effect of $4.48 million because some of the money is spent here twice.

The 350 persons employed by Goshen College support about 660 jobs in the community.

Based on budget formula, the college supporting staff spends $1,010,000, the faculty staff spends $1,360,000, students spend $770,000 and visitors spend $440,000. Of these totals, 90 per cent is spent in this community.

Many of us are more economy minded now that so much mention is made of inflation, recession, cost of living figures, unemployment, etc. This statistical report on real expenditures here by the Goshen College community may help us realize that the college is very important to all of us in an economic way, to say nothing of the cultural offering to the area.

And we might also say that most of the staff and students at GC are solid citizens who contribute a great deal simply by being themselves and participating in the everyday life of our community. There's no monetary index on this factor but we're convinced they make our community a better place in which to live.

Finals are over! One small book report yet and this term will be history. Roughest term of college—all but finished.

I sober realizing what this term has cost . . . how much it's changed me . . . as I went over and put Vivaldi's Four Season on the stereo a few minutes ago I felt downright odd doing something like that. Such things used to be important, natural and every day, and now it almost takes an effort! Although I was aware of the pressure and discipline this term, I never felt any real changes in attitudes. It all happened so slowly and unnoticeably. It's really hard now to imagine a leisurely day in which to decide if I feel like doing this or that.

Perhaps this term has been most damaging in that I never had time to process things happening to me. I've been bombarded from the time I arrived to this moment—with nary a second to think and rest.

A name to look up to Generations have looked to Miles' Alka-Seltzer® for fast relief of upset stomach with headache. And millions have grown up on our famous multiple vitamin supplements. But to countless others Miles means more... much more.

They look to Miles for electronic medical instruments, diagnostic products, organic chemicals and enzymes. And for pharmaceuticals, citric acid, textured vegetable protein foods and many other products that help people live longer, better lives.

For dozens of "people products" we've become known as the company to look up. And a name to look up to.
